Vogelsang launches virtual showroom on biogas technology

- 360-degree view of solutions for economical biogas production
- Multimedia impressions through animations and application videos

Essen (Oldenburg), October 15, 2021 – In their new virtual showroom, Vogelsang GmbH & Co. KG offers a 360-degree view of its solutions for the biogas industry. Via various touchpoints, visitors can interactively experience technology and components for economical biogas production.

“With the showroom, we are responding to the high demand for digital and virtual consulting concepts. With the help of videos and animations, as well as practical examples, we offer our customers and interested parties a new product experience,” explains Carsten Wenner, Marketing Manager for Biogas and Wastewater at Vogelsang.

Information about biogas technology digitally bundled

The showroom offers insights into the complete product range: from pumping technology to cutting and disintegration technology to solid matter feeding systems, and plug-and-play system solutions. With an interactive biogas plant model, Vogelsang also provides customers and interested parties a practice-oriented overview of solutions that shows the locations within the anaerobic digestion plant where Vogelsang solutions can be integrated and retrofitted.
